

The blue headings in the spreadsheet templates indicate where students enter the data. The corresponding functions (calculations and unit conversions) have already been entered.

Providing spreadsheet templates makes it easier for students, but the disadvantage is that they are less involved with the calculations. Instructors who want their students to do more are free to modify these templates or even withhold them altogether.

Since these spreadsheet files are not copyrighted there is no limit on how many people share these files.